

ACC Webcast: Global Policing and Clearance of Trademarks
Wednesday, December 6, 2006 at 11:00 AM ET

WEBCAST PRESENTERS

Philip Davison is a graduate of South Texas College of Law. Philip has been practicing trademark law for over 15 years both in-house and as outside counsel. Recently, Philip managed the trademark departments of Nike, Inc. and Gateway, Inc. Now however, Philip has returned home to Texas, joining YUM! Brands, Inc. as trademark counsel.

Virginia Taylor is a graduate of Emory University School of law and a partner in the Intellectual Property Practice Group of Kilpatrick Stockton, LLP. She concentrates her practice in domestic and international trademark, copyright, advertising and competition law matters, including client counseling, litigation, licensing, brand strategy, protection, and maintenance.

Georges Nahitchevansky is a graduate of Brooklyn Law and a partner in the Intellectual Property Practice Group of Kilpatrick Stockton, LLP. He specializes in litigation and counseling on trademark, copyright and Internet matters across a broad spectrum of industries both in the U.S. and internationally. His experience ranges from handling U.S. and worldwide enforcement of trademarks and copyrights, including complex cross border disputes, to counseling on registration programs and the negotiating, advising and drafting of licensing, acquisition and Internet related agreements