Bill C. Berger is a shareholder at Stettner Miller, P.C., in Denver, Colorado. His practice emphasizes the representation of employers in labor and employment law matters, including both preventive counseling and federal, state and administrative litigation. His practice addresses wrongful discharge issues, equal employment opportunity issues, disability and religious accommodation issues, wage and hour matters, traditional labor relations in unionized workplaces, matters related to union organizing campaigns, litigation of National Labor Relations Act cases, labor arbitrations, and occupational safety and health (OSHA) cases.

He served as the management-side co-chair of the Colorado Bar Association's Labor and Employment Law Section from 2002-2004.

He is an adjunct Professor of Law at the University of Denver, Sturm College of Law, where he teaches employment law.

He is a frequent author. His monthly column, "Labor Law," appears in the Denver Business Journal. He is also a Contributing Editor to The Developing Labor Law.

He currently sits by appointment of the Colorado Supreme Court as a Board Member on the State of Colorado Supreme Court Board of Law Examiners.

He attended the Colorado College, earning a B.A. degree cum laude, Waseda University in Tokyo, Japan, and the University of Colorado School of Law, earning a J.D. degree.
