

David Munn

David Munn is General Counsel for Pramata Corporation, an innovative provider of systems and services that help companies find, organize, and manage contracts and contractual and financial information. He has been an ACC member for more than 20 years and has a longstanding interest in using technology to improve the practice of law. Prior to Pramata he spent nearly seven years with Fair Isaac Corporation, a Minneapolis-based data analytics and decision management company that is best known as the developer of FICO® credit scores, where his practice focused on software licensing and services contracting, as well as intellectual property, Internet, privacy, and advertising law. He also headed up or was instrumental in several process reengineering initiatives and technology implementations relating to contracting and other process at Fair Isaac.

Previously Mr. Munn served as the first General Counsel at Pella Corporation and as Associate General Counsel at Menasha Corporation. He began his legal career in the Minneapolis office of Faegre & Benson. Prior to law school, he worked as a mechanical engineer for Monsanto and 3M.

Mr. Munn has written articles and organized and participated as a panelist in several seminars dealing with technology and the practice of law, including several ACC Annual Meetings and the Marcus Evans LawTech Forum in 2005. He is the author of "Creating a Matter Management System Using Outlook® Public Folders," ACCA Docket, July/August 2002. He is a member of ACC, and is a board member and treasurer of the Minnesota Chapter. He is also a member of the International Association for Contract and Commercial Management (IACCM).

Mr. Munn received a BS in mechanical engineering from Iowa State University and his JD from Yale Law School.
