

SIMON BEAMISH

Simon is a solicitor in the financial institutions group. He undertakes a broad range of litigation work for clients in the public and private sector.

Simon's recent experience includes acting for a major global aerospace company in a multi-million pound arbitration dispute. He also acted for multiple directors in a £76 million breach of fiduciary duty claim and for the majority shareholders of a national theme park business in a £2 million shareholder dispute. Simon has also been involved in a mediation of a large outsourcing dispute for a public sector client and was part of a cross-office team which advised a FTSE 100 utility company on a £9 million breach of contract claim relating to the provision of customer care and billing services.

He has also been a primary contact for consumer credit claims and compliance issues for Goldfish Bank.

Simon completed a four month secondment at Threadneedle Asset Management Limited in October 2008. This involved reviewing investment management contracts, security/structured products and fund portfolio documentation, as well as liaising with Threadneedle's compliance team regarding its reporting requirements to the FSA.
